The Mind is a Dangerous Place

👁 299　　✔ 40　　⭐ 44

Chapter 1 by GeneralSh

What's your greatest fear? In one paragraph, I challenge you to write the most terrifying thing you could possibly imagine. No limits, cards down. There's no limit to how long the paragraph can be, either, so be as descriptive as your devilishly creative minds can be. Good luck.

Chapter 2 by GeneralSh

The most horrible thing that can happen to anyone is this. Give them immortality. They'll love it at first, but watch as they get to slowly, through the course of years, as everything they ever knew and loved ages and dies, while this person remains youthful and energetic. He'll dedicate so much to trying to grant this gift to others, only to watch it all fail. He or she will end up being forced to never connect with anyone, lest he/she wants to have the results of also being unable to save them from inevitable death.

hallway stretches on forever, and after a while, the doors open, and you finally see the corpses.

Jeez, I have a dark mind.

Challenge 3: How do you think the world will end?
(disease, poverty)

Chapter 5 by Supercomicbookgirl ✏️

We are our own worst enemies, the endless possibilities drive us mad. Paranoia takes over our minds, and with that our actions. Countries once at peace, now consumed by the madness of it all. No place is safe anymore, our homes feel like cages, trapping us like birds, but at the same

Challenge 4: What would you do if you find you're the only one left in the world?

Chapter 6 by Light

If the option of killing myself isn't available due to religious beliefs, then I think I'd create a companion whatever form it may take or suitable for life. I'd cherish it at first and take care of it but as my mind edges toward insanity I'd mutilate this earthling because that's what happened here. That's why I'm the only one left, because everyone else destroyed all that remained and now it's about time to join them.

Challenge 5: Give a short account on the worst thing you thought of doing to someone you care about.

Chapter 7 by GeneralSh

Lobotomizing them. To cut apart anything and everything that makes them human and make them into a nothing for the rest of their lives.

slowly being sliced open, then having your nerves individually pulled out by tweezers, while having acid poured on your eyes.
Or.
Watching your family slowly go insane, then them killing you slowly with the method used above, while your closest friends hold you down and make fun of your flaws, imperfections, and deepest secrets.

Challenge 7: What would be the worst news you could ever receive.
